

The book was found

USMC Tanker's Korea: The War In Photos, Sketches, And Letters Home

Synopsis

Introducing Child Psychology is for all those who want to find out what child psychology can tell us about the nature and development of children. Written at a level that assumes no previous knowledge, it is designed for students in schools and universities embarking on courses in psychology, and for those training to work with children on professional courses such as teachers and social workers.

Book Information

Hardcover: 176 pages

Publisher: Elderberry Press (February 1, 2001)

Language: English

ISBN-10: 1930859058

ISBN-13: 978-1930859050

Product Dimensions: 6 x 0.6 x 9 inches

Shipping Weight: 1 pounds (View shipping rates and policies)

Average Customer Review: 4.7 out of 5 stars 7 customer reviews

Best Sellers Rank: #3,064,353 in Books (See Top 100 in Books) #98 in Books > History > Military > Korean War > Personal Narratives #1063 in Books > History > Asia > Korea #151457 in Books > History > Americas

Customer Reviews

Every since I arrived home to the United States of America from the Korean War battlefields I promised myself that someday I wanted to write about my experiences as a youth and as a Marine in Korea. I wanted to honor all those that served there no matter what branch of service. However my main reason was to honor those that were my friends and buddies that were killed and wounded while serving our country and the South Koreans who were brutally attacked by the North Koreans and Communist Chinese. When I had the opportunity to finally write my first manuscript draft just a few years ago, I posted a few pages on a web site. I received several requests for a copy of my manuscript from those that served there as well as wives, daughters, sons and friends that either lost someone in the Korean War or could never get their husband, father or friend to talk about what they that survived had gone through. I even received a request from a high school student. I sent a copy of my manuscript to each one. By God's grace I found a publisher that wished to publish my Korean War memoirs and it has been published just about a month before I boarded a ship destined for Korea. That was 50 years ago. So, Mondal Ammons from Sweetwater, Texas; Robert "Red"

Wheeler from Bakersfield, California and Leonard Todd of Austin, Texas...you have been with me all these years since you were killed serving your country. I will never forget you. Nor will I forget other buddies that served or were wounded or have since passed away. Ron Bay, Ernie Crawford, Lt. Joe Muser, Capt. Milton Raphael, SSgt Chris Sarno, Richard Drayer, Cecill Abbott, Shirley Cavender, John Putis, Raymond Faup, Virgil Cassady, John J. Campbell, George R. Saunders, Ashworth, Bill Koutz, "Doc" Holiday, and so many more including my Korean Marine Corps friend I called "Pisano."
Roger "Rog" G. Baker

Roger G. Baker was born in St. Louis, Missouri on December 2, 1932 and was the third child of Ralph W. Baker and June Worthington Baker. He has an elder sister, Bettie Jane Windsor, an elder brother, Ralph W. Baker Jr. and a younger brother, Barry W. Baker. His family moved to the desert of Pearblossom, California when he was about two years old. His earliest memories there, was walking over the barren desert among sidewinders and at night hearing the lonely cries of coyotes. The family eventually moved to Culver City, California where he attended Culver City Grammar School and Alexander Hamilton High School in West Los Angeles. He was active in all sports, especially football. He spent summer vacations during high school at YMCA camp as an assistant lifeguard, camping and fishing one summer with a friend at Big Bear Lake. At the age of 16 he and his same friend, Gene Chamberlain, worked their way across much of the United States for three months starting out in a 1936 Oldsmobile. They dug ditches in New Mexico; delivered circulars for a market Grand Opening in Oklahoma; worked the wheat harvest in Kansas and Nebraska and potato farms in Minnesota. Roger joined the United States Marine Corps and was inducted on January 20, 1951 at age 18. After 10 weeks of boot camp at the USMC recruitment center in San Diego, he was then trained as a combat infantryman at Camp Pendleton, Oceanside, California. He spent a year in the Korean War with the 3rd Platoon, Able Company, 1st Tank Battalion, 1st Marine Division with over 11 months of front line combat from July 1951 through July 1952, first as a loader and then as a tank gunner. Upon his return to the United States he spent some time in the Naval hospital as a result of a war injury. He was honorably discharged on January 19, 1954. After a year studying as a commercial artist at Chouinard Art Institute in Los Angeles and later working as a salesman for Nehi Beverage Company, he joined Executone of Southern California, an international telecommunications company, as an outside salesman in October 1956. He owned and ran his own Executone Distributorship (Executone of Hawaii, Ltd.) in Hawaii from 1962-1975. He continued his career with Executone both in sales and as the VP/GM for Executone of Colorado from 1978-1987 and later as the manager for two long distance companies in Southern California. Roger has four adult children, Dan Baker, Ellen Baker Rich, James Baker and Clint Baker. He resides in Pensacola, Florida with his wife of 23 years. After passing the Florida State Real Estate Sales exam, he sold real estate. In 1998 and 1999, he and his wife, Jan, were injured in serious automobile accidents, from which they are recovering. Roger is a Disabled American Veteran.

The creator of this tome puts you squarely behind the devastating 90mm flat-trajectory weapon on his Patton Series M-46A1 tank; plus, many more direct fire adventures and the inevitable side trips to tedium and despair that is synonymous with the eternal, war-weary combat Marine tankers. This was all accomplished through his letters sent home and preserved by his loving and sagacious mother. In his depiction of the War in Korea, punctuated by death and misery all around is clearly expressed. Conversely, it also demonstrates the elixir of daily triumphs against a resolute and formidable enemy locked in mortal combat. This is not only a superior read, but also a treat to the eye with a myriad of on the scene photos and the author's brilliant penchant at illustrations and sketches well done. It also explores the brutal and intensive training of all Marines who volunteered for a combat tour to Korea. Only the finest specimen of a Marine entered Korea for service in the Fleet Marine Force. This literary work personalized and covered a polygot of details of what Marine tankers were all about: their virulent mindset and their military accomplishments in the field, which unfolded day-in and night-out. ..THE ENEMY ALWAYS FOUGHT AT NITE!! [close combat]...Roger Baker's natural style unmaskes the unvarnished truth of how Marines survived under severe combat conditions and the trials and tribulations of misconduct in the Reserve Area. He even puts a stamp on his own veracity for expressing his love/lust for life. His writings of such, symbolizes the courageous youth of America; regardless, to his own country's pathetic apathy on what is taking place in Korea [1950-1953]. By your leave, take for instance his 'Bon Voyage' out of Korea in the final chapter. With all the death and destruction during his combat tour of duty, a rip-roaring climax takes place on the loading docks at Inchon...it mirrors, there was never a safe haven in Korea. It was a full blown WAR despite President Harry Truman's smoke/screen, "It's only a 'Police Action' and nothing to fear"...yeah, sure Mr. President...It was WAR in Korea...who am I??...just another Marine tank gunner, who also squeezed the 90mm trigger just like our humble and eloquent author...this is one hellava read...Semper Fidelis....SSGT CHRIS SARNO-USMC FMF

S/SGT CHRIS SARNO - USMC The creator of this tome puts you squarely behind the devastating 90mm weapon on his M-46A1 Patton class tank; plus, many more direct fire adventures and those side trips to tedium and despair that is synonymous with the eternal, war-weary combat tankers. This was all accomplished through letters sent home by the storyteller and preserved by a loving and sagacious mother. In this depiction of the War in Korea, punctuated by death and despair, it also demonstrated the elixir of daily victories against a resolute and formidable enemy in mortal combat. This is not only a superior read but also a treat to the eye with a profusion of on-the-scene photos and the authors's penchant at illustrated drawings and sketches well done. It also explores the intensive training of all Marines who volunteered to go to Korea and to serve in the Fleet Marine Force. This literary work personalized and covered a myriad of what Marine tankers were all about: their virulent mindset, and their military accomplishments in the field, which unfolded day in and night out. Roger Baker's natural style unmaskes the naked truth of how Marines survive under combat conditions and the trials and tribulations of conduct in the Reserve area. He even has the veracity to share his reason for existence with his personal life. His writing of such, symbolized the youth of America; regardless, to his country's pathetic apathy on what was taking place in Korea 1950-1953. Take for instance, the Bon-Voyage out of Korea in the final chapter. With all the death and destruction behind this exodus, the rip-roaring climax mirrors there was no safe haven in Korea. It was a full blown War in Korea, who am I? Just another combat Marine tanker who squeezed the 90 mm trigger just like the humble but eloquent author. Semper FidelisThe End

I found myself many times feeling as though I was there with Roger. There were times I laughed and had tears. I especially like the idea of his personal account of what it was like being a young man so far from home, building new relationships and dealing with losing those close to him. I'm thankful Roger wrote home consistently and his family saved all his letters and drawings, more than that I am thankful Roger has shared his experience with us, taking many of us to a place we have never been, but walked away feeling what it was like to have been there.

Roger Baker shares with all readers his personal account of his year in Korea. His letters home were extraordinary in their level of feelings and honesty and yet allowing his parents to be part of this very difficult time in his life. I found the book warm, funny, sad and yet very tender. Tankers are a special group of men for sure, and living in these machines in the heat of summer and cold of winter must have been unbearable. Roger lets us experience his trip to adulthood in a very personal way. He is a true American Hero.

It's been half a century since the conflict, but this book really takes the reader back. The letters home might have been written by any 18 year old man/boy of today or any other time. For anyone who was there, who lived the war, who breathed the dust, and smelled the stench of Korea, this book is like walking back through a door into the war. Vets, this is a direct order: READ IT!

This book took me to a place I knew nothing about, and did it with language vivid as the photos that stud the text. Perfect? No. Moving? Yes. This is war. Read and learn.

Please send my purchase or credit my account. Thank you. David G. Bauer

Download to continue reading...

USMC Tanker's Korea: The War in Photos, Sketches, and Letters Home America's First Clash with Iran: The Tanker War, 1987â "88 Last Man Out: Glenn McDole, USMC, Survivor of the Palawan Massacre in World War II I Will Hold: The Story of USMC Legend Clifton B. Cates, from Belleau Wood to Victory in the Great War Tanker Operations: A Handbook for the Person-In-Charge (PIC) The Boeing KC-135 Stratotanker: More Than a Tanker I'm Staying with My Boys: The Heroic Life of Sgt. John Basilone, USMC Complete 3rd Marine Division Unit Rosters: Compiled from January 1945 Muster Roll (USMC WWII Unit Rosters) Sergeant Major, U.S. Marines: The Biogrgaphy of Sergeant Major Maurice J. Jacques, USMC World War 2 Historyâ ™s 10 Most Incredible Women: World War II True Accounts Of Remarkable Women Heroes (WWII history, WW2, War books, world war 2 books, war history, World war 2 women) North Korea and South Korea - The Forgotten War Wall Map (2-sided, tubed) (Reference - Countries & Regions) [Map] [2003] (Author) National Geographic Maps Beginner's Home Recording On A Budget: How to Build an Affordable Recording Studio at Home and Get Your Music Heard (Home Recording, Home Recording for ... Songwriting, Home Studio, Acoustic) INTERIOR DESIGN : The Beginner's guide, organise your home, techniques and principles on art of decoration: Customise your home with us (Home design, home construction, home arranging with style) North Korea, South Korea, The Forgotten War: 2 sided [Tubed] (National Geographic Reference Map) The Complete Works of Robert Louis Stevenson: Novels, Short Stories, Poems, Plays, Memoirs, Travel Sketches, Letters and Essays (Illustrated Edition): ... Catriona and A Child's Garden of Verses Libby: The Sketches, Letters and Journal of Libby Beaman, Recorded in the Pribilof Islands, 1879-1880 Letters from an American Farmer and Sketches of Eighteenth-Century America (Penguin Classics) Letters and sketches from the New Hebrides Photoshop: Photo Restoration in Detail with Adobe Photoshop cc (Photo Recovery, Repairing Old Photos, black and white photos, photoshop cc, photoshop cc 2015) How to Archive Family Photos: A Step-by-Step Guide to Organize and Share Your Photos Digitally

Contact Us

DMCA

Privacy

FAQ & Help