Jay H. Withgott Jay H. Withgott has authored "Essential Environment" and its parent volume, "Environment: The Science behind the Stories," since their inception. In dedicating himself to these books, he works to keep abreast of a diverse and rapidly changing field and continually seeks to develop new and better ways to help today's students learn environmental science. As a researcher, Jay has published papers in ecology, evolution, animal behavior, and conservation biology in journals ranging from "Evolution to Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences." As an instructor, he has taught university lab courses in ecology and other disciplines. As a science writer, Jay has authored articles for journals and magazines including "Science," New Scientist, BioScience, Smithsonian, and Natural History. By combining his scientific training with prior experience as a newspaper reporter and editor, he strives to make science accessible and engaging for general audiences. Jay holds degrees from Yale University, the University of Arkansas, and the University of Arizona. Jay lives with his wife, biologist Susan Masta, in Portland, Oregon. Matthew M. LaposataMatthew M. Laposata is a professor of environmental science at Kennesaw State University (KSU). He holds a bachelor's degree in biology education from Indiana University of Pennsylvania, a masters in biology from Bowling Green State University, and a doctorate in ecology from The Pennsylvania State University. Matt is the coordinator of KSU's two-semester, general education science sequence Science, Society, and the Environment which enrolls roughly 7,000 students a year. He focuses exclusively on introductory environmental science courses, and has enjoyed teaching and interacting with thousands of non-science majors during his career. He is an active scholar in environmental science education and has received grants from state, federal, and private sources to develop and evaluate innovative curricular materials. His scholarly work has received numerous awards, including the Georgia Board of Regents' highest award for the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning. He resides in suburban Atlanta with his wife Lisa, and children Lauren, Cameron, and Saffron. --This text refers to an out of print or unavailable edition of this title.

Really like the text book. Solid 100 level Environmental Science text that I am honored to get to teach out of. I like the tie in with real, current issues. I like the format and the dependence on real world experience. Just a few minor "errors" that I correct in class - but overall a very solid book.

Great book for intro Environmental Science studies. Explains basic concepts, and includes case studies pertinent to the corresponding chapter. It doesn't include very advanced topics, but that's to be expected with a general studies text.

Great Book!

This book came in mint condition and was exactly what I needed! Thank you!

ok

Book will work for what I need it but it was dirty and had half ripped of stickers on the front and back.

Rented the book for class, then bought it so I can read it again. Great information in this book!

Dang science! You cool
