Grandma Doralee Patinkin's Jewish Family Cookbook: More Than 150 Treasured Recipes From My Kitchen To Yours

Synopsis

The Emmy and Tony Award-winning performer Mandy Patinkin has long sung the praises of his mother's cooking, from her out-of-this-world chicken soup with matzo balls to her triple-threat brownies. Now in trade paperback, this straight-from-the-heart cookbook brings together home-cooked recipes and memories that have nurtured several generations. Spanning appetizers to desserts, from everyday delights to special occasions, recipes include: --Grandma Doralee's Chicken Salad --Potato Latkes --Sweet-and-Sour Cabbage --Lemon Artichoke Chicken --Rack of Lamb with Red Pepper Marinade --Carrot Pudding --Spinach Noodle Souffle --Butter Crisps --Fruit Kuchen --Kahlua Cheesecake --Passover Sponge Cakes --and much more. With an introduction by Mandy Patinkin, this delightful and down-to-earth cookbook brings together three generations, one extraordinary mom, and more than 150 irresistible ways to bring tradition and love to the family table.

Customer Reviews

Actor and singer Mandy Patinkin wanted his mother to record her recipes to preserve them for the family, but happily for all of us, she turned them into a cookbook everyone can share. It is a joy having this intimate view of the enthusiastic palates and the quirky culinary treasures prized by this food-loving family, through over 150 recipes passed along from grandparents, aunts, cousins, and friends. It is also an intriguing window into the way Jewish Americans ate in the 1940s, '50s, and '60s, when garlic was an exotic, gourmet ingredient. All the expected and familiar Jewish dishes are here, such as cheese blintzes, egg-rich noodle puddings, dense chopped liver, chicken soup, even a homemade version of lox. But the Patinkin family is full of adventurous eaters and creative cooks, so you also find Rack of Lamb elegantly marinated with red sweet peppers, port wine, honey, mustard, and rosemary and a creamy coleslaw tangy with champagne vinegar. Emphatic flavors make the recipes in this book distinctive. Grandma Patinkin punches up her egg salad with chili sauce. She rubs garlic powder on her roast filet mignon, and also puts it in her matzo balls. And she loves curry powder, so it shows up not only in a frittata, gazpacho, and chicken salad, but also in her chicken soup. You decide if this is heaven or culinary heresy! Grandma Doralee is a mean baker, and her Cream Cheese Brownies, with their rich topping, are not to be missed. Nor are her butter cookies, distinctively sweetened with brown as well as white sugar. In sum, the Patinkin family's cooking, like Mandy's singing, is unique, bold, and delivered straight from the heart. --Dana Jacobi

AAA

Made the chicken soup and pureed the vegetables which made a much creamer soup. It was delicious.

Good recipes. Mandy Patinkin is a favorite of mine.

I love this cookbook! I'm biased because she's my grandmother, though...but seriously, try the gazpacho mold :)

Excellent cookbook

Grandma is a great cook.

Delicious recipes and fun to read.

Love this Jewish Cookbook but I love having pictures also to show what my food should look like. The pictures are in red and white...disappointed in that part. The cookbook offers lots of recipes but not in color.
