Rebecca Danger of Bothell, Washington, is a knitting-pattern designer who believes knitting is a lifestyle, not just a hobby. She's got a great blog at www.rebeccadanger.typepad.com and a monster of a website at www.dangercrafts.com. She also feels quite proud that all of the knitting she did in high school and college has led to something more than just frowns and disgruntled looks from teachers.

A gift for a knitter...was a big hit.

You can never go wrong with a Rebecca Danger book. This one actually helps you use up your leftover yarns you can't bear to throw away. Makes some cute little gifts.

love it and all of her books

Cute book

These are really cute little critters, ideal for using up little bits of yarn. And since they use less than 50 yards of fabric, they're quick.

This is the first book I have bought that involves knitting in the round, and I have found it to be quite confusing. However, I will struggle, with some help from our local yarn store, and see what I come up with. Will comment later

I love this book. One you get the hang of the "magic loop" technique, each project becomes immensely satisfying! the designs are genius! so playful and fun.

So much fun!
